Response to Arguments

In response to the previous Office action, which rejected claims 1-5 under 35 U.S.C. §102, Applicant has canceled claims 1-5 and added new claims 6 and 7. Applicant has also fully complied with 37 C.F.R. §1.111 by providing distinguishing features between the newly presented claims and the references previously applied. The pending claims are unpatentable for reasons set forth below.

Specification

Applicant's substitute specification filed 26 September 2007 is acknowledged and approved for entry.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 6 recites the limitation "said oil storage zone" in the last two lines. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by United States Patent Application No. 2006/0153677 A1 (Winkler et al. hereinafter).

Winkler et al. show an axial fan having a lubrication system design to mitigate oil leakage, wherein a fan frame 74 has attached thereto a motor base 78; a bearing seat 38 with two ends disposed in the motor base 78 and receiving a bearing 36; a sealing plug 62 blocking or closing off one end of the bearing seat 38 end and containing lubrication oil 110; a fan blade wheel 22 with a shaft 34 fit within the bearing 36 and the shaft 34 having a free end with an annular recess 58; wherein an annular plate-shaped stop member with a central hole 114 is joined to the bearing seat 38 for the shaft 34 being capable of passing through the hole and fitting with the bearing 36; the sealing plug 62 having a groove for receiving oil 64 and accommodating the end of the shaft 34; and a clearance between the stop member 114 and the shaft 34 to prevent oil from leaking therethrough (see FIG. 2).

For claim 7, the stop member claimed as "attached to the inner surface of said upper end" is not patentably distinguishable from the Winkler et al. reference since the Winker et al. reference shows the stop member 114 being integral with the bearing seat 38, and is therefore “attached” to the inside surface. Also, the “closed lower end” of the bearing seat is anticipated by the Winkler et al. bearing seat 38 being closed by the stop member 62.

Winkler et al. recite in claim 26 a “capillary gap” between the element 114 and the fan wheel, which anticipates Applicant’s molecular clearance claim limitations. The gap is formed between the shaft 34 and the element 114, although the outer surface of the shaft does not oppose the element 114 to define the gap.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
